FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Dear Readers,

As October unfolds, we are enveloped in the festive spirit that brightens our days. In the spirit of Diwali, our school organized a fund collection to share joy and support those in need. Our students took the initiative to deliver these contributions to local orphanages and old-age homes, spreading happiness to those less fortunate.

The Diwali celebrations were marked by grandeur and enthusiasm as we proudly showcased our rich culture through skits, dances, and songs. Dressed in vibrant outfits, our students celebrated joyfully with friends and teachers alike.

Additionally, we hosted a Dandiya night for students and parents in our Golden Jubilee Hall. The evening was filled with dance, games, and delicious snacks, making for a wonderfully organized event.

These gatherings not only provided a platform to display our talents but also helped us forge connections and create lasting memories.

THE BONE OF GREED

Once upon a time, there lived a farmer named John. He lived with his family consisting of his wife Andrea and two twin siblings, Mark and Joseph. He worked so hard; spent 14 hours in farming, 5 hours to pray and 5 to sleep. He had no time to spend with his family. His salary per month was only 100 cents.

One night, John had a dream. He saw God in his dreams. God said "Tomorrow morning, reach the field sharp at 7. Dig the middle part of the field. After digging 2 feet down, you will find a piece of bone. Hit it with a steel material and you will be granted a basket of coins." This continued for the next few years and he was amazed that his salary had grown to 100 dollars per day.

One night, he asked God in his dreams "My dear God, why couldn't you directly give me a lot of money?" God replied "That's because I don't want you to get trapped in greed". John said "oh, now I understand the reason. Tomorrow I will wake up at 6 in the morning and earn money by hitting the bone at a steel material."

When the sun rose the next morning, John put his plan into action but the bone did not turn into money. He became sad and returned home. After a week, a magician came to the city for a magic show. It was late at night and he had to rest in the farm. When it was morning, the magician did some magical spells and the bone became a lion! The magician ran away and when John came, the lion ate him.

Moral: Greed is an insatiable desire for more, often driven by a hunger for wealth, power, or material possessions. It blinds individuals to the needs of others and erodes personal values, as the pursuit of self-interest outweighs compassion and fairness. Ultimately, unchecked greed can lead to destruction, both of relationships and of one's own sense of fulfillment.
